

A few things a need to make clear on our Discussion Boards.

1. Please, do not use wikipedia for your Discussion Boards!
It's not an academically accepted source. You can find information there, but then confirm the information through other sources and cite those.
2. Please, do not use your textbook for your Discussion Boards!
This is an internet research project.
3. Plagiarism
To those of you that have over a 25% similarity score on your Discussion Board, you need to look at your work again. It is against school policy to take the work from another assignment (even one you have done before), the internet, or another student. If your Discussion Board is using material that is copy and pasted from any of the sources above, please edit your post, or post a new one in your own words.
4. Cite Your Work
Your work needs to be cited to get full credit for your assignment. We need to know that the research was acquired from a valid source.
